Invitation

The Institute of International Studies, Faculty of Social Sciences of the Charles University and the Representation of the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung in Prague invite you to a panel discussion

(Post)Brexit Europe, Great Britain and Germany

Tuesday, December 17th, 17:30-19:30

Prague Creative Centre, Old Town Square 4/1, Prague

The Brexit (whatever the outcome of the political process) has changed both Great Britain and the EU and will continue to influence British and European future for time to come. The British-German-Czech panel will address the most crucial issues linked with Brexit and related internal as well as external issues/challenges of the European development from British, German and Czech perspectives.

The panellists are:

- Prof. Simon Bulmer, University of Sheffield
- Prof. William E Paterson, Aston University, Birmingham
- Eliška Tomalová, Institute of International Studies, Faculty of Social Sciences, Charles University, Prague
- Christos Katsioulis, Head of the Representation of the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung in London
- Moderation: Leonie Liemich, Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung in Prague

The panel will start with brief introductory statements of the panellists and their exchange and will then open for a discussion with the public.
